Filmmaking discussed on second day of workshop at Namchi college

SE Report

GANGTOK, May 26: The second day of the three-day national workshop organised at Sikkim Government College, Namchi by the department of Journalism & Mass Communication had three resource persons widely acclaimed in the area of filmmaking who provided students the perspectives and knowledge they require in the subject of filmmaking.

The three speakers from different parts of the country specializing in filmmaking delivered their talks in two technical sessions distributed into four different talks. The three resource persons were Prof. Shayamli Karmakar, former head of Editing Department, Satyajit Ray Film and Television Institute (SRFTI), Hitesh Liya from SRFTI, Kolkata and Saurav Sarkar, an independent filmmaker, director, and social educator.

The theme for the day was 'Filmmaking', where the speakers discussed and explained the theoretical aspects as well as the technical aspects of filmmaking. The speakers screened their films and explained their contents and their meanings.

Prof. Shyamal deliberated on the role of sound and picture in cinema and various essential elements that are required in the process of filmmaking. Sarkar discussed the characterization of films while he explained the meaning of experiencing the films rather than just watching them for the purpose of entertainment as films are the strongest medium of communication and they possess messages and can be understood in various different ways.

Liya discussed how the aesthetics of films works like how the rules of composition, and the rules of light, can be used. He asserted that the visualization and planning of films are the most important aspects of filmmaking. He suggested the participants: "Don't just watch films instead try to learn what has gone behind making of the films."

The three-day national workshop titled "Visual Reproduction of Events through: Direction, Filmmaking, Photography & News Reporting" is a part of a month-long academic meet and is sponsored by RUSA (Rashtriya Uchchatar Shiksha Abhiyan).
